Recruitment Website Design

At Milk we have many years experience creating, managing and growing recruitment websites for clients across the globe. Our focus is always on delivering a user-friendly yet powerful experience for candidate and client alike. We understand that an employer brand is on show at every stage of the online recruitment process and as such we ensure positive candidate engagement across all our recruitment websites.

Design for Recruitment websites

Creating a recruitment website is more than just an online brochure. Bespoke recruitment websites can act as a catalyst to the recruitment function of any company by engaging the brightest talent and streamlining internal operations of recruitment companies and agencies.

Featured Recruitment Clients

Milk work with many successful recruitment agencies and direct employers across industry sectors. In the public sector 4Social Work are rapidly becoming the leading online recruitment agency in the country. In IT, Skillect is offering a unique approach to contracting and temporary employment in a dynamic sector.

Recruitment website and software in one

Milk has launched a recruitment website and software product called Recsite. This system offers a powerful e-recruitment website experience, with comprehensive applicant tracking and recruitment software. The system works as the central hub for your e-recruitment process and is used by recruitment agencies and direct employers.

At Milk we understand that all recruitment website projects are unique so contact us for a no obligation discussion.
